

MUST MAKE LEAGUE REAL, SAYS PREMIER

Lloyd George Writes That It Must Not Be Regarded as Merely a New International Agreement.

DISARMAMENT NECESSARY

Is an Essential Condition, He Declares—Strong Army and Navy
Would Make It Obsolete.

MANCHESTER, March 29.—In a special edition today on the question of a league of nations, the Manchester Guardian prints an article, from many prominent statesmen, including Lord Haldane, former secretary for war, Viscount Bryce, former ambassador to the United States, Albert Thomas, the French socialist leader, and Premier Lloyd George. The premier in his message says:

"I am very glad to hear that the Manchester Guardian is devoting a special number to the league of nations. Nothing is more important than that public opinion should influence the making of this subject. The league of nations represents the greatest attempt that ever has been made to substitute reason and justice for force and intrigue as the governing principle of international relations."

"The principle of a league of nations has been accepted, but the league will prove fruitless if it is to be no more than a few pieces of international organization. What matters is that the units which make up this organization shall be inspired by a real determination to work in close harmony together for the betterment and liberty of mankind. Nations must not let themselves believe that in having drawn up a paper constitution, the peace of the world has been made secure."

"If they allow themselves to be misled by this policy they will only be weakened by a new war. They have to see that the league of nations is made an effective instrument for the solution of every international problem by their own readiness to make sacrifices in its behalf."

"The United States and Great Britain, who have taken such a leading part in promoting this beneficent scheme, must give a practical demonstration of their belief in it."

"Disarmament is an essential condition of success. We cannot expect the nations ravaged by the war to trust their destiny to the protection of the league if its advocates hesitate to show any confidence themselves in its guardianship. To set up a society of nations to insure fraternity among the peoples of the earth, while at the same time increasing the armies and navies to insure effective fratricide, is to make mockery of a great ideal."

More A. P. Papers

NEW YORK, March 29.—Two new morning daily papers in Rio Janeiro, Brazil, were today added to the newspapers throughout South America, which receive an extended telegraphic news report on world happenings from The Associated Press. They are the Journal do Brasil and the Correio da Manhã. The service to them is relayed by telegraph from the office of The Associated Press at Buenos Aires, where it is received throughout 24 hours of the day from New York. Transmission being over the lines of the Central and South American Cable company, the "All-American cable."

Continue Navy Award

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—Charles Pies, director general of the emergency fleet corporation, announced today that the navy board award relating to wages, hours and other conditions, which expires Monday night, will be continued and guaranteed by the corporation until the employees and employers of all shipyards in the country where the award applies have reached a new agreement. The guarantee, Mr. Pies said, would expire October 1, if an agreement had not been reached by that time.

Britain and Chile Sign Treaty

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 29.—The British minister to Chile and the Chilean foreign minister today signed an arbitration treaty. It provides for the establishment of a peace commission or to solve difficulties which may arise between Chile and Great Britain and which cannot be adjusted through diplomatic channels.

Murder Case Adjourns

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich., March 29.—Examination of Mrs. Stanislaw Lypchynski, charged with the murder of Sister Mary Johns of the Polish convent at Isador, 11 years ago, was adjourned today at Leland, near here, until April 10.

Dr. STOTTS

210 Richard Bldg., Third and Boston

DR. STOTTS TREATS BLOOD and Skin Diseases, Obstructions, Prostate, Kidney, Bladder and Urinary Disorders, Rheumatism, Stomach and Liver Disorders.

Formerly Practising Physician of Hot Springs, Ark.

FREE Consultation and Advice

Charges Low. Medicines Furnished. Serums and Vaccines Administered.

"606" For Twenty Dollars

(American Salvatorian) Arsenobenzol and Diarsenol For BLOOD POISON

Hours: 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., Sun- days: 9-12. Tuesday and Saturday evenings, 7 to 9.

Dr. STOTTS 210 Richard Bldg., Third Street and Boston Ave., Tulsa, Okla.

Outbursts of Dixie Hines

New York Demonstrates Sentiment—Home Grown Dancers Growing in Favor—Handy Savings Banks—Novel Insurance Case—Theater Party Given to Blind in Honor of Helen Keller.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Monday will be a day long remembered in New York. It was the day when the returned soldiers, forming "New York's own," were officially welcomed home. For two weeks they have been made to understand that they were welcome more than welcome. To recount the program would require one full page of this newspaper. To tell of the individual scenes would require the entire newspaper.

The streets were lined with thousands upon thousands of welcome. Many of them came from far away cities, some as far as New Orleans and Chicago. Each seemed determined to "top" his or her neighbor in the matter of vociferous outbursts and when the parade was over, which happened late in the afternoon, the spectators resembled, in their state of physical depletion, some of the German brigades which had been pitted against those boys who helped to make imperishable world history.

New York is said to be a city without sentiment. This tradition the real New York. The real New York was in evidence Monday when cheers were lavished upon the returned soldiers upon those who find their resting place close to Flanders field.

Decision said to be unique in legal circles was handed down in New York this week when an accident insurance company was required by the court to pay a death claim on the life of an insured who met his death at the hands of an outraged husband, with whose wife the deceased is said to have been unduly familiar.

The insurance company contended that the deceased had increased the insurance hazard by his act, but the court held differently. The humor of the case was developed when the attorney for the insurance company sought to establish the claim that paying attention to another man's wife was rated an "extra hazardous" and it proved in this case, but the judgment for $2,000 was rendered none the less.

People who go to the play and opera are so accustomed to reading the names of foreign derivation attached to the dancers that they think only in European countries is the dance taught and brought to perfection. This is not the case, and the war has brought that fact clearly home to Americans.

Recently a dance entertainment was given at a prominent New York theater. Some 20 or more young dancers were exhibited, many of them winning high recognition. In deed, five or six of the most advanced were engaged at once by leading managers for Broadway plays. This recital, arranged by Mile. Sonia Serova, a dancer of note, was a delightful surprise to the artistic colony of New York. Until Mile. Sonia Serova demonstrated the latent possibilities of native tropical dancers, the question had seriously been debated whether might come the future dancers.

"There are so many promising candidates for dance honors that the question is to eliminate them judiciously because of lack of space on a program," Mile. Serova declared. She is herself an exceedingly versatile artist, as must be in one who has developed so great a variety of dances for pupils. "It has been shown that when the demand exists, the supply will follow. New singers are developed by droves and new actors and actresses are made overnight, but it was never believed that a demand existed for new dancers with the result that the field has been supplied principally from opera companies and musical comedy plays. Now we have demonstrated the limitless field and the artistic interest created is sure to prove beneficial in the general advancement of American art. With this branch developed, the United States presents a complete front to the artistic world, and can well afford to invite criticism."

It is interesting to note the observation of Mile. Serova that interpretive dancing is the most substantial branch of this work. There is an increasing admiration for classical dancing while ballet dancing is losing in favor. And the jig and shuffle is almost forgotten.

New York has solved the problem of thrift. It remained for the Vacation association, one of the most effective of the local self-help organizations, to find a way to make thrift and saving easy and pleasant when you know how it is done.

The Vacation association was formed several years ago by a number of well known men and women in New York who are interested in the welfare of women. This was especially true of those who joined together in the original Vacation association. They sought to offer a practical, easy and pleasant method of inducing frugality, thrift and saving among self-supporting women. It was found that many would save if the savings banks did not discourage the small depositor. Another drawback was the difficulty of reaching the bank during the usual banking hours or without loss in carfare. So the Vacation association sought first to overcome this, and the simple expedient of opening "station" banks in the office of such of the important department stores, where many women are employed, and in other places where the women of the city were gathered.

Puzzled Doctors in Three States Will S. Allen had kidney and bowel trouble so bad he was afraid he would lose his job on account of them. He got so he could hardly sleep at night. Mr. Allen says he was taken to doctors in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas and all of them were puzzled over what ailed him, and weren't able to help me at all. Oklahoma is the only thing that has done me any good, and although I am the father of nine children, I feel as young and healthy as a boy. All my pains are gone and I am hungry all the time and eat anything I want.

ORGATONE (Liquid or Tablet Form) Is sold by The Rexall Store

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards' produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping in the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime. Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try the Mc and 25c per box. All druggists.

It was believed the service would be utilized. This was done with excellent results. Women deposited their meager savings here and at the end of the week 146 store, office or factory reported it to headquarters. The vacation association allows the depositors to withdraw it on the same conditions as a regular bank, and the store or office where it was deposited will honor drafts if given due notice of the intent to withdraw. So failing to bring the depositors to the banks, the banks have been taken to the depositors.

This association is one of the most active working organizations in the city, and just now all New York is interested in the idea concept that will be given under their auspices and for those of the local self-help organizations. The Vacation association, April 4, Gertrude Farrar, Sergei Rachmaninoff and the Philharmonic orchestra are the advertised features, but not the least will be the galaxy of distinguished people in the audience, representing every branch of industry, the arts and society.

The most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

As the curtain rose and before the action began, the scene was described to the audience. Each had a book in his or her hand, and the most original theater party in the annals of the Hudson was that consisting of 1,500 blind men, women, boys and girls, who attended the performance of "The Crowded Hour" which was given for their benefit at an extra matinee performance in the Selwyn theater. The guest of honor was Helen Keller, and in the large hall were many who were dumb and deaf as well as afflicted by the loss of sight.

tail was dwell upon, and the description sufficed to give them a vivid picture of what was before them. Those who retained their hearing listened breathlessly to the speeches of the players, and followed accurately the progress of the play.

The big dramatic moment arrived when Georges Plateau, the French actor, who enacts the role of a lion officer back of the trenches, is called upon to read "The Star Spangled Banner." The play provides this opportunity as a sly hit at the Americans who must be taught by a Frenchman their own anthem.

"Who knows the words?" a girl inquires of a group of American soldiers who are arranging a reception to some of their comrades who are about to arrive. The humiliating intelligence is thus derived that none of them know the words none save this Frenchman, Captain Soulier, in the play and Georges Plateau in real life. He delivers an oration on the beauty and power of the gripping words and finishes by reading the lines. On this occasion, however, instead of reading, but the first stanza, he read the entire anthem, and at its conclusion no such demonstration has been heard in a theater in years. It was read with more than the usual fervor of this

"I have decided to become a movie actor," Harold de Becker said to an exchange manager. "What are the opportunities?" "Good, if you have qualifications. What are they?" "I can act," the witty actor replied. "And I am willing to buy an automobile, wear diamonds and forget much that I know."

Heads Texas & Pacific. NEW YORK, March 29.—N. S. Melhorn was today elected chairman and president of the Texas & Pacific Railway company to succeed William Church Colborn, as chairman, and J. L. Lancaster, as president.

Receiver Is Appointed For Rumanian Oil Concern

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., March 29.—Judge Crumpacker today appointed the Hammond, Ind., Trust & Savings company receiver for the First Rumanian Oil & Gas company, a dairy, Ind., concern with oil leases in Texas, Oklahoma and Tennessee. The receivership was granted in the petition of stockholders, who alleged that Peter Dumu, a dairy commission, president of the company, and other officials confiscated $17,000 of the company funds in stock sales last summer.

Alfred Forces Active. ARK-HANGER, Friday, March 28.—Alfred forces were active today in the vicinity of the village of Hosha, but the cloudy weather hindered the work of the aviators who were observing the effects of the cannonade.

PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX PAST DUE AFTER APRIL 10

The personal property tax will be due delinquent April 10 and penalties ranging from $1 to $50 per cent of the tax will be due from those who have failed to make returns on their personal property. Deputy assessors have nearly completed a thorough canvass of the city and county, notifying all those liable to the tax of their obligations. No additional effort will be made to notify those from whom the tax is due. W. S. Hooker, county assessor, said Saturday. "We have given every citizen of this city and county sufficient time in which to make these returns and those who fail to report their tax to this office before April 10 will be compelled to pay the penalties attached by law," he said.

Want Ads in the Tulsa World get results at a minimum cost.

Willard
STORAGE BATTERY
SERVICE STATION

Copyright registered, 1919

Freckle-Face

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

Do you know how easy it is to remove those ugly spots so that no one will call you freckle-face? Simply get an ounce of Othine, double strength, from your druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of freckles and get a beautiful complexion. The sun and winds of March have a strong tendency to bring out freckles and as a result, your skin is soiled in this month. Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove the freckles—Adv.

MEDICINE VS. FOOD

Do you buy something which you already have? You have food which you feed your horses, cattle and sheep, but when you want medicine, buy only medicine. That is what you get in E. A. Thomas' Stock Remedy. We sell it and guarantee it to be medicine. We tell you that it will tone up the entire system of your stock and aid digestion, thereby causing them to get all the food value out of the grain that you feed them—Adv.

The Long and the Short of It